SUES CONTRACTOR FOR INJURIES

Romolo Ranieri of This City Asks $3,000 For Hurts in Fall From Staging at Plainfield—Verdict For Defendant in Motorcycle Damage Suit.

In the superior court at New London on Thursday afternoon a beginning was made in the trial of the suit of Romolo Ranieri of this city against the B. Smith construction Co. of New Bedford for $3,000 damages for personal injuries received from a fall from a staging was started before a jury in the superior court. The plaintiff was a minor at the time of the accident and brings the suit through his next friend, Frank H. Gardner of Norwich.

The plaintiff alleges that on Nov. 8, 1911, he was employed as a hod carrier by the defendant company, which was constructing a brick mill in Plainfield. While he was on a staging erected by the company, it gave way and he fell from the second story of the building to the floor below, as a result of which he received injuries and wounds of the legs, arms, body and head, fractures of both wrists, strained the ligaments of his right side and suffered internal injuries. He alleges negligent construction of the staging, negligent maintenance and that it was out of repair.

The plaintiff is represented by Shanks & Shields and the defendant by James of Norwich and Waller, Waller Avery & Gallup appear for the defendant company.

Verdict for Defendant.

The morning hours of court were occupied with the continuation of the trial of the $3,000 damage suit of Robert G. Matison of New London vs. A. H. Christensen of Chester, New Jersey, reaching a verdict for the defendant in the early part of the afternoon.

Matison was suing for injuries received as the result of an automobile accident in which the plaintiff alleged that he was struck by the defendant's motorcar while crossing a motorcycle in State street last April.

NEW LONDON MINISTERS WANT SUNDAY BUSINESS STOPPED.

Address Open Letter to Citizens of That City.

The keeping open of places of business on Sundays in defiance of the law governing this matter has led the New London ministers to address an open letter to the citizens on the subject. They make the following suggestions:

1. That the churches first of all seek to restrain the minds of their members from thoughtlessness and unseemingly Sunday patronage of the stores in New London.

2. That suitable resolutions be addressed to the churches to the mayor and board of aldermen and the city prosecuting attorney.

3. That similar action be taken by all local lodges and orders and societies who are on the side of civic righteousness.

4. That as many storekeepers say they are willing to close Sundays if they can operate in conformity with the same, we recommend to all citizens a campaign of personal persuasion of the storekeepers as opportunity offers.

5. That evils, long sanctioned by custom, often appear right and expedient, and are not to be removed in a moment, we entreat all classes in our city to patiently consider this matter, and to co-operate in conforming to what our state legislature has wisely and recently determined.

They quote the following statute as the one violated by the Sunday opening of the stores, which are over 50 in number:

Chapter 115, section 1: "Every person who shall do any secular business or labor, except works of necessity or charity, or keep open any shop, warehouse, or manufacturing or mechanical establishment, or expose any property for sale, or engage in any sport between 12 o'clock Saturday night and 12 o'clock Sunday night, except as provided in section two of this act, shall be fined not more than fifty dollars."

Approved May 26, 1913. (Section two refers only to public concerts and athletic sports.)

MILLINERY MODES.

Beautiful Types of Headwear Provided by the Designers—Thursday's Displays.

A real spring feeling in the air yesterday inspired in women's minds the conviction that winter hats were getting altogether too heavy for comfort, and to mention faded and worn hats, with the thought of selecting something lighter and more seasonable, there were many shoppers in the stores and some handsome hats were purchased.

One pattern that noticed was an aeroplane tampe of French crepe over blue, effectively faced in blue, and having taupe wings at front and back. A dressy mossy mode with a black crown was roiled high at the left side, where the trimming was of rich jet. A paradise aigrette gave a smart finishing touch.

Black hats, faced on top with old rose French crepe, formed a modish hat, which had two handsome gracefully curved old rose plumes on each side.

Particularly attractive was a white hemp with horsehair braid edge, really a Normandy bonnet shape. Blue and yellow shaded plumes were across the back and there were cunning little bouquets of dainty forget-me-nots.

A four-pointed turban was a pleasing model for those who like small shapes. It was developed in cloth of gold with trim of rich red velvet, and had one tall ear of the combined blue velvet and gold.

Flowered chiffon and silver braid were used in building a shepherdess model. Its extremely high band had a wreath of small shaded purple morning glories. Loops of soft lavender velvet were under the brim at the back.

A tango hemp braid shape had shirred ribbon about the crown, two bouquets of tango flowers and wheat at the left side, and another nestling motif under the brim at the right. It is manifestly a neglect of opportunity to omit seeing these and other stylish hats which are coming from the designers' work rooms daily.

Improve the chance to inspect the elegant offerings in millinery, suits, coats, frocks and dressy accessories today!

The first witness called when court came in at 10 o'clock Thursday morning was Edison Deuse of Chester, one of the occupants of the automobile owned by the defendant. Deuse testified that he was in New London on Plant day, which was the occasion of the opening baseball game of the season and was sitting on the front seat beside Mr. Christensen when the accident occurred. He said that the machine went up State street at a rate of about ten miles an hour and when opposite Green street it made a swing into Green street. The motorcycle operated by Matison was going about 15 miles an hour and coming down State street.

The motorcycle passed in front of the automobile which had been stopped flush with the sidewalk and had not gone into Green street. There was no impact between the machine and motorcycle which went over the sidewalk and into the window of L. Lewis & Co. Matison was astride the machine after it struck the window. Witness didn't remember hearing any signal given by the motorcycle. He then proceeded to give figures of measurements of the width of State and Green streets at the sidewalk at the corner of State and Green made by him Thursday morning, at request of counsel for the defendant.

He was followed on the stand by Tra Tucker of Chester, who corroborated substantially testimony given by Deuse regarding the accident. The defense rested its case at 11 o'clock when the arguments were made by Attorneys George C. Morgan and Daniel M. Cronin for the plaintiff and by Attorney Rollin U. Tyler of Deep River for the defendant. The arguments were finished at 12:40 when Judge Reed gave his charge. At 1:15 he gave the case into the hands of the jury. Judge Reed then declared recess until 2 o'clock when the jury retired to consider the case.

HOW A CAVALIER BUILT BROOKLYN CHURCH

Col. Malbone Revolted Against Paying Tax for "Schism Shop"

Religious differences of a hundred and fifty years ago were recalled in an address by the Rev. Sherwood Soule, superintendent of the Missionary society of Connecticut, at the thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Connecticut Congregational club at Hartford, Conn., last night.

The subject was "A Clash of Puritan and Cavalier in Connecticut a Century and a Half Ago." Mr. Soule spoke from an intimate knowledge of the situation through research which his address was greatly appreciated.

Col. Malbone An Aristocrat.

In his address Mr. Soule made no effort to analyze the contrasting temperaments and beliefs of Puritan and Cavalier, covering long periods of history and presenting a social, political, ecclesiastical and theological sketch of the Malbone, Putnam and the Rev. Dr. Josiah Whitney.

The dramatic setting was due to the Congregational society in Brooklyn (this state) attempting to build a new meeting house in the year 1870, in those days all property was taxed to support the ministers of the Congregational order and to build the sanctuaries.

Colonel Malbone was an aristocrat, educated at Oxford, England, and pronouncedly loyal to the church and crown of England. His estate in England was required to pay one-fourth of the cost of the new meeting house. To him it was utterly repugnant that he should be called upon to pay in the construction of what he called a "schism shop."

The contest in the little community waxed hotly and Malbone had many sympathizers. He was a man of parts and high personal quality.

His only relief, however, from the odious taxation was to build a church of the Episcopal order and maintain worship. Thereupon started the race in the erection of the church, the church he called Trinity church, after his native parish in Newport, R. I.

Generous.

Colonel Malbone was a man of rare generosity and absolutely above hypocrisies and dissimulation. He had great personal friendship for Colonel Israel Putnam, afterwards Major General Putnam, in spite of their political differences. When the Revolution broke out Malbone, by his discreet and dignified bearing, escaped molestation and submitted himself to the adjustment which followed the war of independence.

His only relief, however, from the odious taxation was to build a church of the Episcopal order and maintain worship. Thereupon started the race in the erection of the church, the church he called Trinity church, after his native parish in Newport, R. I.

A Congregational Fight.

The Congregational meeting house, which was completed six months after the Malbone church, was at that time one of the finest in the state.

In the year 1870 a resolution was called to assist Dr. Whitney, the pastor, who had already served more than fifty years and had reached the age of more than four score and ten years.

The associate, coming from Massachusetts, where the Unitarian movement was rife, brought dissension into the parish, because of his seemingly heretical views.

The Ecclesiastical society championed the new minister while the majority of the church remained loyal to Dr. Whitney and his teachings.

All efforts for conciliation were futile and the climax came on a communion Sunday when Dr. Whitney, who was to receive nine members into fellowship, arrived at the door of the sanctuary only to find it barred and locked against him.

This left the field in possession of the Unitarians, which is a notable case in that it is the only instance in the state of Connecticut in which the church property was captured by the "Channings."

When Dr. Whitney Died, The Congregational church was

Gone Forever Are Dyspeptic Days of Old

The Simple, Safe, Sure Use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Bring Joy to Any Stomach Sufferer in an Easy, Comfortable, Dietless Way.

How many quiet, afraid-to-make-a-noise, unhappy, homes there are due to cross, irritable, miserable, close-that-kitchen-door kind of dyspepsia sufferers. Such men and women cannot help their peevishness for they suffer terribly and should not be censured.

A stomach that is irritated, raw, rebellious and not fit to do its work is certainly the cause of constant dragging down and even excruciating agony.

It is a feeling surpassed by no other illness known to man. No one should blame such a person for ill temper and silent moodiness. Ever and always is that dead, gone, sour tasting feeling at hand to curse every waking hour.

Dyspepsia, bad breath, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach, pains in bowels, nervousness, heartburn, belching, bloating, etc., come from wrong conditions of digestive juices. There is nothing to correct these horrors until these juices are again replenished.

When the system exhausts its juices, when the liver, when the pancreas, the stomach become thereby unfit to furnish the proper digestive fluids, one cannot expect this same system, without aid, to do anything else than keep on making their improper digestive products.

Such a condition means all manner of suffering, and unquestionably fatal danger lurks in such delay. There is relief in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets that means a restoration to normal health, a building up of correct digestive juices and an absolute harmlessness in the method and its result.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain quantities in just the right proportion to build up the weakened gastric juice. When the tablet reaches the stomach, it readjusts matters quickly, balances acids and alkalis and stops pain, suffering, etc.

Other ingredients have just as important effects upon the intestines as well as the stomach and thus in a remarkably short time stomach ills, indigestion, disappear.

shipped for a while in an unfinished attic. Dr. Whitney, with eye not dimmed and natural force undiminished, continued in the pastorate, which was his only one, for sixty-nine years, and in his ninety-fourth year, after a brief illness of less than a month "fell on sleep."

His last days were remarkable and his clearness of mind and happiness of heart continued to the end. The difference in the community, meted into insignificance. His whole flock, old and young, came to his bedside. Mothers from far and wide brought their children that he might baptize them, feeling that the touch of his hand and the benediction from his saintly lips gave special blessings.

Stereoscopic Views.

At the close of the address Mr. Soule displayed several stereoscopic views, showing the old church in Pomfret, the wolf den, a portrait of Major General Putnam, views of the Malbone, the Unitarian churches, portrait of Dr. Whitney, the equestrian statue of Major General Putnam and the tombstone, formerly on Putnam's grave which is now in the state capitol.

COLOR BLINDNESS.

May Exist Spiritually, but is Not Incurable, Says Rev. E. S. Worcester.

Color Blindness was the subject upon which Rev. E. S. Worcester addressed the Y. M. C. A. shop meeting held at the Hook, etc., district on Thursday night. Music was furnished by the Victrola. In part, Rev. Mr. Worcester said:

The man who wishes to be a locomotive engineer has a variety of tests to pass, of which not the least important is that for color blindness. His eyes may be strong, he may never have worn glasses, he may see every signal, however distant, but unless he see it the same color as other people see it, engine-running will be a dangerous occupation for him.

There are other sorts of color blindness, perhaps even more frequent than the physical. The man who hears good music but has no interest in it, the man who has never learned to appreciate a good piece of a well written book, or has forgotten, the man who has been so engrossed in one pursuit as to lose the capacity for enjoyment outside of it, has a somewhat similar ailment.

There are those, too, who seem to be morally color blind, men who own up frankly to grafting, for example, and see no harm in it, and men who are less troubled in their consciences than by their clumsiness in being found out.

"If you catch him in a lie, he gets away with it," said an admirer of a recent candidate for high office, and it is well to remedy the lack before running by a danger signal to some serious catastrophe.
